

OUR WORKFORCE. YOUR SUCCESS.

LEGAL SOLUTIONS

Our unique business model offers the services of attorneys with extensive experience & impressive credentials... at rates which are significantly competitive with traditional legal models.

Outsourcing of professional services has become a key corporate strategy in the 21st century, as corporations concentrate on their key competencies and outsource other aspects of their business. IDT Global Services, a leading provider of outsourced solutions expanded this business model and created a division called Outside Counsel Solutions (OCS) to provide legal services to include both in-house and outside counsel.

Outside Counsel Solutions is a legal outsourcing venture that provides the services of outstanding attorneys to law firms and corporate legal departments at markedly lower costs. The quality is inherent in our unique personnel. The savings are inherent in their unique location – Israel.

OCS is premised on the unique confluence in Israel of a large pool of high quality U.S. educated and U.S. trained expatriate attorneys combined with a wage structure that is significantly below that of the U.S. This allows us to provide the services of these attorneys to U.S. law firms, corporate legal departments and other clients at rates that are often 50% or more below those generally billed by leading U.S. law firms.

Outsourcing is becoming an increasingly significant factor in the provision of legal services. Many leading corporations, such as DuPont, General Electric, IBM and others, are mandating that certain aspects of their matters be outsourced to reduce legal costs. However, anyone who has utilized temporary legal help knows of the inconsistent quality, work ethic and work product that often result.

OCS is different. What we offer are top quality, U.S. attorneys to whom you can delegate virtually any aspect of your legal work without compromising on quality or control. Our attorneys are graduates of top American law schools, have extensive experience at major U.S. law firms and corporations, and are admitted to practice in at least one U.S. jurisdiction. Were they still resident in the United States, they would be practicing at leading law firms or occupying key in-house legal positions.

OCS attorneys can serve in whatever capacity you wish. We can be your “back office” - producing drafts of agreements, filings, pleadings or research memoranda - or play as prominent a role as you and the specific matter determine. In each case, you will not be making any ongoing commitment, incurring overhead or paying for down time. Give us a project and it will be performed the way you would have done it yourself, or the way your law firm would have done it for you - with no sacrifice in quality or time, but with a significant reduction in cost.

Legal outsourcing is fast becoming a fact of life in the practice of law and you should have the benefit of the best offering available. Whether you require an external solution for an understaffed project, or simply want to give your practice greater flexibility by tapping the experience, availability, reliability and quality of our attorneys, OCS is your answer. We look forward to the opportunity to tailor a solution that addresses your specific practice and needs.

"This (legal outsourcing) strikes me as the biggest wave in the last five years in its ability to rework both sides - law firms and law departments - of the legal services industry."
